Society

Contributions for This Page Welcomed

Contributions to the society column are desired by the Telegraph, and all persons leaving town or having friends to visit them are requested to telephone the society editor at phone No. 5. Accounts of parties, dances, marriages and announcements of engagements also are desired. If items are mailed to the office they must bear the signature and address of the sender, not for publication, but as evidence of good faith. Write plainly, on one side of the page only.

For society editor, call 5, Telegraph. As a rule, items which are held over for several days before reaching this office will not be used, for the news is only news at the time it occurs.

Over the river they beckon to me—
Loved ones who've crossed to the farther side;
The gleam of their snowy robes I see,
But their voices are drowned in the rushing tide.

There's one with ringlets of sunny gold,
And eyes the reflection of heaven's own blue;
He crossed in the twilight, gray and cold,
And the pale mist hid him from mortal view.

We saw not the angels who met him there,
The gates of the city we could not see;
Over the river, over the river,
My brother stands waiting to welcome me.

Over the river the boatman pale,
Carried another, the household pet;
Her brown curls waved in the gentle gale—
Darling Bonnie! I see her yet.

She crossed on her bosom her dimpled hands,
And fearlessly entered the phantom bark;
We watched it glide from the silver sands,
And all our sunshine grew strangely dark.

We know she is safe on the farther side,
Where all the ransomed and angels be;
Over the river, the mystic river,
My childhood's idol is waiting for me.

For none return from those quiet shores,
Who cross with the boatman cold and pale;
We hear the dip of the golden oars,
And chatch a gleam of the snowy sail.

And lo! they have passed from our yearling hearts,
They cross the stream and are gone for aye.
We may not under the veil apart
That hides from our vision the gates of day.

We only know that their bark is no more,
May sail with us o'er life's stormy sea;
Yet somewhere, I know, on the unseen shore,
They watch, and beckon, and wait for me.

And I sit and think, when the sunset's gold
Is flushing river, and hill, and shore;
I shall one day stand by the water cold,
And list for the sound of the boatman's oar.

I shall watch to the gleam of the flapping sail,
I shall hear the boat as it gains the strand,
I shall pass from sight with the boatman pale,
To the better shore of the spirit land.

I shall know the loved who have gone before,
And joyfully sweet shall the meeting be;
When over the river, the peaceful river,
The Angel of Death shall carry me.

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY.

Breakfast—
Chilled melons, prepared cereal, thin cream, broiled tomatoes on crisp graham toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—
Corn soufflé, lettuce sandwiches, spinach salad, baked apples, milk, tea.

Dinner—
Stuffed baked fish, scalloped potatoes, onions au gratin, cold slaw, gooseberry tapioca, rye, milk, coffee.
Corn soufflé is a delicious luncheon dish that contains much nourishment. The milk and eggs furnish protein while the corn supplies the bulk.

Corn Soufflé.
Two cups corn cut from the cob, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 cup soft bread crumbs, ½ cup milk, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 eggs, few grains pepper.

To cut corn from the cob cut a thin slice from the tops of the kernels and scrape out the pulp with the blunt edge of the knife.

Melt butter, add crumbs and milk and cook, stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Add corn, yolks of eggs beaten until thick and lemon colored, salt and pepper. Mix well and fold in the whites of the eggs beaten until stiff and dry on a platter with a wire whisk. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake 25 minutes in a moderately hot oven. When firm to the touch the soufflé is done and must be served at once or it will fall.

SURPRISE PARTY AT MAYTOWN—

August 16th was a surprise at the Albert Kessel home at Maytown. Mrs. Kessel and her daughter attended church in Van Orin very little thinking that she would find 85 of her relatives at her home all ready to serve a big dinner which was brought in baskets all ready to serve by the guests. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Roemmick and family, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Zimmerman and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schlesinger and family, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Schlesinger and son, Newton, Mr. and Mrs. John Poltsch and son, Ed., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Poltsch, Mr. and Mrs. Will Poltsch and family, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Zimmerman, Mr. and Mrs. John Kaiser and family, Mr. and Mrs. Will Ganz and family, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mathies and family, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kessel and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Brown and family, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brown and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Stuart and family, Mr. August Schlesinger and friend, Miss Volkert, Mr. and Mrs. Will Zinke and family, Fred Roemmick, Mrs. John Krenz, Jacob Kessel, Mrs. Katherine Kramer. There were 89 for supper. All had a good time and all too soon did the hour come for their departure. All enjoyed the occasion and hoped to have another such a good time again in the future.

VISITED EDGEWATER GLADIOLI FARM—

Wednesday Miss Bess Eells entertained a company of friends with luncheon at the Lincoln Tavern in Sterling and afterward with a visit to the beautiful Edgewater Gladoli farm. Those in the party were Miss Eells, Mrs. Frederick Rosbrook and daughter, Virginia of Peoria, Mrs. H. U. Bardwell and daughter Clara Gwen, and Miss Nonie Rosbrook.

LOOK WELL AND SEE WELL
Good looks and good vision are possible with the same glasses.

Supplying stylish and becoming frames is now as much the work of a competent Optometrist as is the prescribing of proper lenses.

The hideous appearance of a person caused by an ill-fitting or unbecoming frame often spoils the beneficial effects of the best and most accurately fitted lenses because of the nervous jar the patient receives every time they look into a mirror or overhear uncomplimentary remarks of another person as regards their looks.

Since it is possible to "Look Well and See Well" with your glasses, Why not enjoy both?

Miss Rosenthal Hostess Wednesday

Miss Maxine Rosenthal delightfully entertained Wednesday afternoon with 500 in honor of her cousin, Miss Agatha Rose Degen of Chicago. Eight young ladies, Elizabeth Rhodes, Avis Resek, Alice Powell, Ruth Dana, Clara Gwen Bardwell, Helen Byers and Mazie Joe Forrester, were her guests, first honors being won by Miss Alice Powell and consolation going to Miss Helen Byers.

Jeanne Eagles and Ed. Coy are Married

New York, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Edward K. (Ted) Coy Yale gradiron hero of other stars, and Jeanne Eagles, actress, star of "Rain," are honeymooning at her $75,000 summer home in the Briar Hills cliffs, near Osining, on the Hudson.

The secret romance, whispered for months after the first Mrs. Coy obtained a divorce in Paris last December, was revealed yesterday. There was a quiet wedding at the home of Fay Bainter, actress, near Stamford, Conn. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George Hamilton, pastor of the North Stamford Congregational church.

The bride said she was supremely happy. "Retire from the stage?" she asked. "No, not just yet. Mr. Coy does want me to, or rather he did. We've talked that over and over and it's agreed I shall continue in "Rain" for a while. We'll stay here until the show opens in Chicago."

Coy until recently was connected with a brokerage firm. He is reputed to be worth $10,000,000. In his marriage license he gave his age as 37.

Coy was captain and fullback at Yale in 1909 and was a peerless line backer and drop kicker. He was a unanimous selection for all-American back fields.

Three years after graduation in 1910, he eloped with Miss Sophie D'a Mel-drim, daughter of General Peter Mel-drim of Savannah. They were married at Asheville, N. C. By the Paris divorce, the first Mrs. Coy obtained custody of their two children. Miss Eagles is now married for the first time. The license gives her age as 27.

Enjoyable Steak Fry And Corn Roast

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Schuler entertained ten guests last evening at their cottage at Schuler's Beach with a most toothsome corn roast and steak fry. Incidentally Schuler's Beach adjoining his farm, is one of the most attractive beaches on the river, the grounds adjoining his rustic cottage being ideal for an outing, secluded and delightful. There is a fine stretch of beach, nice white sand with a gradual incline to the river.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—
Save Your Steps.
It will save you much needless walking if you will keep a dust brush and pan on each floor of your house.

Loose Flavor.
Tea and coffee if left to stand uncovered for any length of time will lose their strength and flavor.

Earthen Bowl.
Use an earthen bowl with a wooden spoon for mixing cake, muffins and batters.

White Sauce.
You can make a much richer white sauce if you use part cream instead of all milk.

Summer Camps are Proving Inspirations
Taylorville, Ill. — (AP) — Summer camps for farm women where they will discover that they are "only girls grown older" and return to the farm with new ideas on conducting their homes, were advocated by Mrs. Spencer Ewing, Bloomington, president of the Illinois Home Bureau federation at the State Farm Bureau picnic here today.

"Among the interesting new recreational projects of the Home Bureau is the summer camp for rural women," said Mrs. Ewing. "It is a real vacation for several days with no cooking or washing dishes, no responsibility of any kind. The children for once are left behind."

"The popular idea that farm women cannot leave home in the summer has been exploded—at least in Texas. There, 14,500 women attended ninety-two camps. These country mothers, escaping from a thousand duties, play like girls, laughing and taking until the lights are out."

"These camps present a very skillful mixture of the serious and the gay. The days are full of varied events, the rising bell and the setting sun, the impressive flag raising, the absorbing hand craft and camp classes, the stimulating outdoor exercises and singing games, the quiet rest period, hikes and nature work, camp fire songs, stories and stunts,—all are new avenues of inspiration and knowledge. New companionships are formed."

"These farm women discover they are only girls grown older; they go home refreshed; they carry with them the re-discovered gift of play; they find they are more valuable in their homes because they brushed wits with other women. They have found the relation between recreation and efficiency."

CHICAGO STILL GROPING.

Chicago and John B. Fergus want to do something in their relation to the state of Illinois, but they don't know what to do. They threaten injunction and talk of secession, but do not show faith in such proceedings. Now it is proposed to ask the Illinois supreme court in a mandamus proceedings to compel the Illinois legislature to reappoint the state in accordance with requirements of the constitution.

During the time these threats have been in the making through Chicago newspapers questions have been raised concerning two proposed proceedings. One position the Chicagoans have abandoned, in the other they still place their hopes.

The first threat was that court proceedings would be begun to hold up all appropriations on the ground that the legislature making them was illegally constituted, because it was elected after a time when the state should have been reappointed; that it is so constituted that certain portions of the state are not duly represented and that certain other parts are over-represented.

Certainly it would take a lot of digging on the part of counsel for Chicago and on the part of the supreme court to find law that will hold that a legislature can not make appropriations for state institutions because it is illegally constituted, but that it can make an apportionment. The attack on appropriations has been abandoned.

John A. Watson, counsel for Fergus, has indicated that he will present to the Illinois supreme court, when it convenes in October, the mandamus petition to compel the general assembly to act. Concerning it the Tribune says:

"While the supreme court has taken the position that it can not mandamus a co-ordinate branch of the state government—the governor and the legislature—Mr. Watson will make the claim that the Illinois legislature is merely a de facto branch of government which the court need not recognize as de jure, or permanent. He feels confident that the court will uphold claim. He does not contemplate an attack on any of the legislative acts, but merely takes stand that the court can and should adopt mandamus and compel the assembly to reappoint the state on the population basis in compliance with the state constitution.

"The acts of a de facto legislature he admits are immune from attack but at any time during a decade following a census a mandamus to compel compliance with the constitution will hold. As a result his suit will be against the present legislature, although the assemblies of 1921 and 1923 failed similarly to reappoint on the basis of the 1920 census in the same manner that the legislatures between 1911 and 1919 failed to redistrict after the 1910 census."

The question that comes to mind and has not yet been answered publicly is: How can a supreme court compel members of the general assembly to agree?

Can a supreme court compel Senator Wright of DeKalb county and Senator Hicks of Winnebago county to vote for an apportionment bill that places them both in the same district and eliminates one of them from a chance to succeed himself?

As long as a majority of a general assembly says it can not agree to a particular manner of reappointment, what is the supreme court going to do about it? What is Chicago going to do about it?

It is possible for a court to compel a clerk to call an election, but certainly it is contrary to the theory of self-government and to public policy for a supreme court to compel a member of a legislative body to vote contrary to his convictions.

WARFARE.

Eleven years ago this month the German armies were pushing on through Belgium and France to the very outskirts of Paris. A great war was on. In those mad days and the years that followed neither side could afford to count the cost.

But it is still the morning after the great fight. Nations really have just begun to count the cost. They have just started to pay the bills of warfare. The longest battle is still being fought.

Some comparisons are made of Teddy Roosevelt, Jr., and Robert LaFollette, Jr. The difference this far shown is that Young Robert started his campaign saying, "I stand for the principles upon which my father was elected." Young Teddy said, "My father taught us that every tub had to stand on its own bottom."

Congressman Charles E. Fuller of Belvidere has announced that he will be a candidate for renomination for a twelfth term next spring. He represents the Twelfth district, known also as the Rockford district, including counties of Winnebago, Boone, DeKalb, LaSalle, Kendall and Grundy.

As the strike cloud rises over the anthracite fields, idle bituminous coal mines in Illinois are being opened to take advantage of all the "breaks."

At a Massachusetts conference of school superintendents it was declared that the flapper teacher is a failure and the old aid teacher is a model.

Now we have found where Bird S. Coler has been hiding all of this time. His name was a familiar one as a New York politician many years.

If a "Fundamentalist College" is an appropriate memorial to Bryan, why locate it in Tennessee and especially in Dayton, which is safely Fundamentalist already.

Let it rather compete somewhere with the heathenizing influences of Harvard, Yale, Columbia, or the state universities? The backwaters are safe from disturbance. It is the main stream of twentieth century current whose torrent needs to be checked. The dam should be right athwart it.

The true place for such a college is alongside the laboratories of Johns Hopkins, where students may be safeguarded from the consequences of seeing with their microscopes something that Moses did not know.

It is an old struggle, and it never ends. Bacon tells the story of an order of priests who undertook to learn how many teeth a horse has. The Fathers and Aristotle were searched in vain for the information. Finally, a guileless neophyte suggested getting a horse and counting the teeth. Consternation reigned. "Satan hath tempted this bold neophyte to declare unholy and unheard-of ways of finding truth, contrary to the teachings of all the fathers."

So the number of teeth in a horse's mouth was declared to be "an everlasting mystery, because of a grievous dearth of historical and theological evidence." From Bacon, through Darwin, to Scopes, rash neophytes have still been insisting on counting horses' teeth. Surely, we need new schools, to teach that there is no wisdom except in books.

PEACE CAN BE ASSURED IN PACIFIC

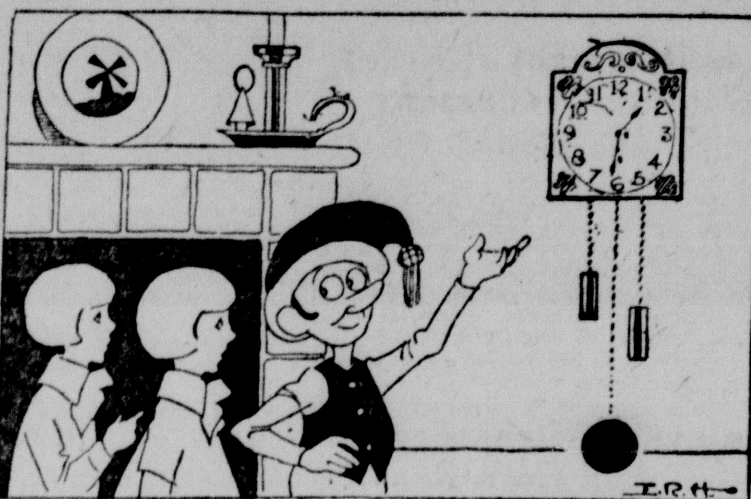

Doubtless Lloyd George meant nothing more than the statement of a long-obvious fact when he said that in the event of a war in the Pacific, Britain and America would be on the same side.

It is at least true that if America were in such a war, Britain would be on our side. The converse may not be so certain. If Britain were in such a war, America would prob-

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 5—MISTER WAG-ON-THE-WALL

On the wall hung the quaintest clock the Twins had ever seen.

"The next place is pretty far away," said Tick Tock, the clock fairy, "so we shall have to hurry."

"We can go as fast as you can," laughed Nick.

"Then come along," said Tick Tock. So bidding good-bye to the grandfather clock, they started down the road.

"I'll just say this and then go on with the story—that the next day when Mr. Tompkins came down stairs to breakfast, he called to his wife, 'The old clock has taken a notion to go again and I declare if it isn't right to the very dot.'

But this story is about 'Tick Tock and the Twins, and we'll have to leave the old clock ticking in the hall, and follow them."

They came to a city and passed a lot of houses so much alike that they looked like peas in a pod.

At last Tick Tock stopped in front of one four doors from the corner.

"This is the right one," he said. "Although it looks like the others, I always know it because the bricks in the pavement are extra red, the steps are extra white, and the whole house is extra everything."

And indeed he was right, as the Twins could see in the light cast by the street lamp at the corner.

"Why is it so extra clean?" asked Nancy.

"I don't know exactly," said Tick Tock. "But I think it is because a family by the name of Van der Loon ably try to keep out of it. Of course it would not succeed; but the process of realizing international inevitables works slowly in America.

The real point is that there need be no war at all in the Pacific, with Britain and America either in or out of it. Unlike the Atlantic, the Pacific situation is simple.

There are only three naval powers in the Pacific, Britain, America and Japan. Agreement between these three, not to fight each other, and to keep their naval establishments important for aggression and invincible for defense, is easy. To a considerable extent, it already exists, and, with increasing understanding, it can be made stronger.

Between themselves, they can thus insure peace. As to all others, their interests are common, and this fact, properly recognized, can also assure peace. The problem of the Pacific may not be easy, but it is simple.

SENATORS HOLD

MARGIN TODAYAre But One Point
Ahead of Athletics
for Leadership

New York, Aug. 28—(AP)—Losing streaks are keeping Washington and Philadelphia locked in the race for the American League leadership and today the world champion Senators boast a margin of a lone point.

The redoubtable Walter Johnson, recalled hurriedly from his home in Kansas to take the mound at St. Louis, failed yesterday before Joe Bush's greatest performance of the season. The former Yankee permitted only one hit, that a double by Johnson, and won 5-0. The Athletics were idle.

Aldridge of Pittsburgh, leading team in the National League and Benton of the Boston Braves engaged in a super tussle at Boston which went to the Pirates 1-0 when Benton filled the bases with two walks and a scratch hit by Rawlings, then forced a man across with another pass.

As the Giants lost to Cincinnati, 3-2, in a desperate struggle, Pittsburgh stretched its advantage to six and one half games.

Brooklyn gained a firm hold on fourth place by dowing the Cardinals, 10-9 after Dick Cox had slashed a homer into the stands to tie the score in the ninth. Hornsby made his 54th circuit clout of the season.

Carlson of the Phillies shut out the Cubs 4-0 although his mates made only five hits off Blake.

Lyons, right handed White Sox ace, annexed his 18th victory of the season by trouncing the Yanks, 6-5.

A triple by Tavenner and a wild throw by Dotrock in the tenth gave Detroit a 5-4 decision over Boston in ten innings.

Bill Lamar of the Athletics a few days ago was banished for throwing a bat which narrowly missed Owens, a catcher and Earl Sheely of the White Sox at first base, also escaped the usual "lay off."

Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals, by knocking out home run number 34 against the Dodgers, has considerable edge over major league rivals but it is doubtful if he will be able to touch his previous mark of 42 before the end of the season.

Carlson of the Phillies blanked the Cubs, making it two shutouts in a row for the former Rockford twirler.

Ted Lyons of the White Sox beat the Yanks and hung up his 18th victory. Ted has lost eight games. After getting away to a bad start Lyons settled down and what scoring was done after the first frame was helped along with errors. The pale horse mixed their hits with New York errors for the victory.

Vic Aldridge, former Cub, turned in a rattling good game for the Pirates when he let the Braves down with four hits and whitewashed them.

Triples by Roush and Pinelli of the Reds put across enough runs to down the Giants in a close game.

Kaplan and Herman in Draw: Is Their Fourth

Waterbury, Conn., Aug. 28—(AP)—Louis (Kid) Kaplan of Meriden, Conn., world's featherweight boxing champion, remains featherweight boxing champion of the world, having fought a draw in his 15 round contest with Babe Herman, before 20,000 people last night.

Several experts were inclined to favor Herman, who showed better generalship, but a whirlwind finish had much to do with the referee's decision. Kaplan suffered a broken finger in the eighth round.

It is the sixth meeting between the two men. Herman fought his usual stand up battle while Kaplan apparently had little of the driving power he showed in fighting his way through to the championship last winter in the tournament sponsored by the New York Athletic Commission.

Kaplan and Herman have each won a bout and four have been draws.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 28—(AP)—Bobby Jones, here to defend his title of national amateur golf champion at Oakmont Monday, isn't at all optimistic that he will retain the laurels. Pitted against the champion are some of the country's greatest amateurs.

"One can never tell what is going to happen in a golf match—there are at least a dozen in this tournament who have a chance to beat me," Jones said.

25 Years of

Firestone
Service
to Highway Transportation

25 years of anticipating the requirements of motorists—making manufacturing processes more certain—producing a higher standard of quality—25 years of unswerving adherence to the Firestone pledge, "Most Miles per Dollar"—summarizes Firestone's record of service to car owners.

Firestone factories have grown from a small building approximately 75 x 150 feet to mammoth plants having floor area of over 60 acres—from a capital of $50,000 to over $50,000,000—from an annual sales volume of $100,000 to over $100,000,000—all in the short period of 25 years.

This Firestone record could only have been made through furnishing the public with outstanding values and is, consequently, your assurance of quality and lowest prices.

If you would like to know more of this wonderful record, ask your Firestone dealer to send you an illustrated folder.

With today's high cost of crude rubber and other raw materials, Firestone's opportunity to serve the public was never better, due to its great volume and special advantages in buying, manufacturing and distribution.

A HART-PARR needs no rest
You can work this sturdy tractor day and night

With tireless HART-PARR power you can do more in a day than you ever did before. No more slow, shallow plowing to make it easier for your horses. No more wasted minutes while you rest them. The HART-PARR does most jobs better than horses—in less time and at much lower cost.

Just think of the ways in which a HART-PARR can lighten the burden of your work. In the spring it will do your plowing, discing and seeding much faster than horses. In the fall it will speed up your threshing, harvesting, husking, shredding and silo filling. And in winter it will shell corn, grind feed and saw wood.

The HART-PARR is surplus-powered to meet every emergency. It will work day and night to save your crops or get your plowing done in season. The HART-PARR costs little to operate and nothing to maintain when not in use. Repairs are seldom necessary, as HART-PARRS are built to last. Many 24 years old are still in successful operation.

This economical kerosene-burning tractor comes in three sizes, for the small, medium and large farm. We are now showing the improved models, with enclosed drive, disc clutch, detachable power take-off and greatly increased power for belt and field work. Ask us for a demonstration on your farm.

Call or Write For This FREE Book

We want you to have this instructive book on the economy of power farming. It tells you how to increase your acreage, raise bigger crops and make greater profits. SCHOOL NOTES

School begins in Compton on Monday, Aug. 31 at 9 a. m. An excellent enrollment is expected and a very successful year should follow. Two changes have been made in the teaching force for the year. Miss Hazel Montavon succeeds Miss Cole and needs no introduction to the patrons of the school. Miss Mary F. Fiedler takes the place of Miss Shufelt. Miss Fiedler is a graduate of Northwestern University and formerly taught in the Geneseo, Ill. high school. She will teach English and Latin. Mrs. Thompson will teach History and Prof. Thompson will teach Science and Mathematics. Mrs. Fox,

Miss Montavon and Mrs. Swope will handle the grade work.

The State Supervisor of High Schools visited the local school last spring and reported himself as well pleased with the school, the course of study, the teaching and the attitude of the pupils toward their work, and he continued the recognition of the school by the state. This recognition insures the full crediting of work done in Compton high school by any high school in the state. Every graduate of Compton high school for the last four years has received full credit for all work done in Compton when they presented their credits at Rochelle, Paw Paw, Mendota, Amboy, Dixon, East Aurora and Cedar Rapids.

The Assistant State Fire Marshal carefully examined the building and found that all his recommendations of the previous year had been fully complied with.

A special invitation is extended to all eight grade graduates to come to Compton to begin their high school work. A very good enrollment is expected and there will be room for 60.—E. L. M.

Cudahy's Puritan Cooked Ham

TASTE and tenderness—the essentials to good cooked ham—are the qualities that give Cudahy's Puritan its finer flavor. Cudahy's Puritan Cooked Ham is selected meat—ripened naturally

by the special Cudahy process, which produces its superior, full, rich flavor and tenderness.

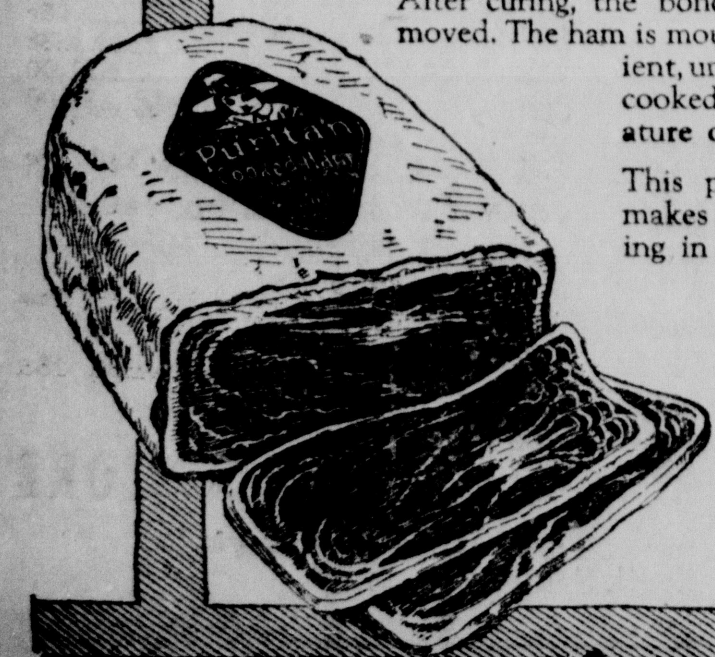

After curing, the bone and surplus fat are removed. The ham is moulded to shape for convenient, uniform slicing without waste, and cooked under precise careful temperature control.

This process of curing and cooking makes Puritan Cooked Ham outstanding in superiority.

RARE PERFUME IN COAL OF ILLINOIS ANALYSIS PROVES

Bewildering Maze of Articles and Elements Found in Coal

Springfield—Delicately scented perfumes to vile smelling carbon disulphide chemical, have a common parent—black Illinois coal.

A chart prepared by Otto M. Rau, Pennsylvania consulting engineer, who had completed a survey of the Illinois coal situation, shows a bewildering maze of widely contracted articles and elements derived from the black crystal which lies under more than half of the surface of the state.

Mr. Rau has recommended the furtherance of the Farrington giant power project which would consume the coal at the mouths of the mines, save the by-products and send electricity to every part of the state.

The survey says 200 billion tons of bituminous coal still remains under the surface in Illinois, and that only 1 per cent has been removed. From this subterranean store house come products of all kinds, varying from the fluid which brings out the artistic shadings of a landscape photograph to the tough pavement materials that withstands the beating of ruck wheels and horses hoofs.

The chart divides coal into four primary parts, gas, gas liquor, coke and tar.

From the gas division is obtained illuminating and fuel gases, the deadly cyanide chemical, benzol, the bad smelling carbon disulphide, prussian blue, sulphur and number of other combinations.

The coke division gives domestic coke, metallurgical coke, briquettes, oven carbon, lamp black, graphite which is the base of innumerable lubricants and several other by-products. The gas liquor division is composed of seven ammonia combinations.

But the tar division with its manifold variations of the chemical formula la takes up nearly three fourths of the chart in naming its products.

It is divided into light oil, middle oil, heavy oil, refined tar and pitch. A large family of explosives including picric acid are included under this subdivision. Dyestuffs of every kind, naphtha, benzine, aniline and the well-known indigo come from this part of the coal family. Here are found photo-developer, perfumes, disinfectants, antiseptics, cresol solutions, synthetic resin and others of the same character.

In this division are found the sweetest and the sourest—sour picric acid and saccharin which is many times sweeter than sugar.

The middle oil subdivision gives many of the same products in addition to which are, aspirin, flavorings, shingle stains, cresote oil, lamp black, wood preservatives. In this part of the family many of the names are unpronounceable, such as anthraquinone and quinacrinol to say nothing of ammidonaphthol.

Paving material is derived from the refined tar subdivision, which includes many of the roofing compounds. Sidewalk compositions, sub-flooring, pipe coating, black paint, insulation and water proofing are all members of this branch of the coal family.

The brilliant cinema light rays emerging from the holes in a motion picture projection booth come directly from electrode carbons, of the pitch family. Trap shooters targets, powdered fuel, core compounds, paving compounds and battery compounds are also taken from this subdivision.

The Pennsylvania engineer has recommended the use of a method brought out by Professor Samuel M. Parr of the University of Illinois, who has been working with Illinois coal for several years. This method, Mr. Rau says, would treat coal and save many of the by-products which are now being wasted in faulty methods of consumption.

Our camp meeting was a means of blessing to many. We had about 60 from our church present on last Sunday.

The Sunday school attendance was 2175 which is no doubt the largest attendance ever recorded during the 30 years of the history of our camp.

Modern rationalism claims that reason is a sufficient guide, without revelation. But whose reason? Mine?

Yours? Or some other fellow's? There is no universal reason. What is reasonable to one may appear utterly unreasonable to another. There are grades of reason, from the idiot to the philosopher, and the philosophers do not agree. Reason is easily influenced by prejudice, passion, ignorance, love, hatred and sin. God has given us His word to guide and direct us in every way.

"Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path."

ST. PAUL'S EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCH

Rev. Lloyd Warren Walter, Pastor.

Rev. Carl B. Caughman, Missionary Pastor.

WEST BROOKLYN'S SCHOOL TO OPEN MONDAY MORNING

Playground Equipment
Has Been Installed for the Youngsters

West Brooklyn—The directors of the public school announce that school will open Monday, August 31st. A complete playground equipment has been erected in the school yard and several other improvements have been made about the building. The village board has erected a new bridge across the creek. The teachers will be the same as last year: Miss Helen Long primary room; Miss Irene McCrea, intermediate and Francis Morrissey the high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stout were here from Amboy Friday and called at the home of her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dolan.

The band concert will be postponed from Friday evening to Saturday evening this week on account of the fair at Amboy.

Misses Lella Barlow and Maria McIntyre were here from Amboy Friday evening calling on girl friends.

The ladies of the domestic science club held a tag night for the band boys Friday evening. Through their efforts and the generosity of the public the neat sum of $22.50 was added to the band's treasury and the band boys are very grateful to both the women and the donors. Many people do not realize that it takes on the average of $15 a week to keep the band going, which doesn't include anything for members compensation.

Ithel Hazelman was here from Peoria over Sunday and visited at the home of her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hasselberg.

Arthur Archer, thresherman for the Town Line Run, treated the thirteen members of his ring to ice cream and candy at the Fred Rybee home Sunday night. Mr. Archer threshed the thirteen jobs in fifteen days which comprised over 1000 acres of small grain. Needless to say Mr. Archer was keen retained for next year.

Mrs. James Phelan is entertaining her sister and husband from Milwaukee at her home this week.

Frank Ayers, our gas man, pleasantly surprised us Tuesday when he announced a drop of 2c per gallon on gasoline.

Bert Bieschke and Merle Pine are enjoying their annual vacation from their duties on the mail routes and B. E. Vincent and James Biggart are carrying mail.

Mrs. Carrie Oester is here from Rockford and is spending a week visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Fred Koehler and other friends and relatives.

Julius Wiser drove to Dixon Tuesday in quest of a farm to rent.

Mrs. Clara Zapf of Ottawa and Mrs. Elizabeth Floersch of Compton were here Monday and visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Fassig.

Frank Hallmaler shipped a carload of porkers to market Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Miller were here Monday and visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Fassig.

Mr. and Mrs. Florian Walter were in Rockford Sunday and visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hildman.

Edward Bresson motored to Aurora Sunday and took in the fair.

The village aldermen had their hands full this week repairing the pumping apparatus at the well and repairing a leak in the mains on Johnson street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bodner left in their auto early Monday morning for Portsmouth, Ohio, where they expect to spend two weeks visiting their old home.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Henkel were up from Mendota Thursday and spent the day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Henkel.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hagerman arrived here from Howard, South Dakota Thursday for a three weeks vacation. John reports conditions as being very good in the west. This is the first visit back since moving here four years ago.

Amor Lauer was over from Sublette Tuesday doing some plumbing work.

Julius Kugler was a business caller in town from Viola Wednesday.

The TANGLE

CLIPPING FROM THE PITTS-BURGH SUN:

The home of Mr. John Prescott was entered last night and while nothing was taken, it would seem that the thieves were still in search of Mrs. Prescott's pearls. This bears out the police theory that there is still one man, and that man the chief of the band, at large; but it shatters the theory that he had the jewels with him.

Now the whereabouts of half a million dollars worth of pearls is a greater mystery than before. All Mr. Prescott's servants (that were with him at the time the pearls were taken, are still in the house. Most of them were with Mrs. Prescott while her father was alive.

All boxes, vases and other receptacles in the library that could possibly contain these jewels had been overturned. When the case was reported to the police this morning, a reporter accompanied the Commissioner of Police, who took charge to person, to the house.

Mrs. Prescott had not allowed anything to be disturbed. The room was in the same condition in which burglars had left it.

No one seems to have heard the slightest noise or disturbance in the house, yet there is indisputable evidence that there was more than one person concerned in the search. In fact, a bit of orchid-colored chiffon was attached to a statuette that had been brushed off of its pedestal on to a cushioned divan which was standing near.

One would naturally suspect from this that there was a woman as well as a man on the job. This idea was confirmed by the finding of a delicate orchid handkerchief near the piano with the monogram MC on it.

Mr. Prescott has petitioned for a municipal watchman to guard his property for a while. This will be in conjunction with two men he has hired privately.

Mrs. Mary Alden Prescott, the mother of Mr. Prescott, reports that in the early morning hours, just before daylight, she was awakened by something, she knew not what, and went to the window of her room where she saw a limousine drawn up to the curb and a man and a woman just getting into it. It did not strike her at the time that these two people had come from the Prescott home, and she went back to her bed and went to sleep.

Police Commissioner Laidlaw insists that the visit to the Prescott house was made with another motive, added to the finding of the gems. He says it looks like the work of someone who wanted to execute a revenge of some kind, inasmuch as nearly everything in the room was defaced in some way. He has advised Mrs. Prescott to take particular care of herself and her children until the miscreants are apprehended.

There's Always Another Thrill

When six convicts broke from San Quentin, California, and seized Captain Alex Sagerstrom's tug, they told him to "get going or get killed." He got going. Sagerstrom, a one-eyed old salt with years of sea experience behind him, said: "I thought I had had all the thrills—but this was a new one." The convicts compelled Sagerstrom to take them across the bay from the prison—but a posse awaited them.

L. CENTER COUPLE SURPRISE FRIENDS BY THEIR WEDDING

Mrs. Louise Zopf and John Hanneman are Wedded Wednesday

Lee Center—Miss Ruth Berry and aunt, Mrs. Grace Klemm departed Wednesday for Portland, Ore., where the former will teach in the schools and the latter will be employed as a nurse in a hospital.

Rev. and Mrs. H. H. Pollard and daughter Ellen returned Friday from a pleasant vacation in Michigan and Sunday service and Sunday school were resumed.

Mrs. Rena Halsog and grandson Edwin Daw are Chicago visitors this week.

Harley Clink and John Ellsworth of Mendota are motoring in Wisconsin. They plan to visit Dr. D. C. Levens at Fairchild before they return.

Mrs. John Brasel entertained Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ustled of Joyce, Ia., several days last week. The two ladies were classmates in school.

Supt. and Mrs. H. P. Hibish, daughter Helen and son Paul departed Thursday for Erie, Ill., where the former will assume an excellent position as superintendent of schools there. They will be greatly missed here in church, civic and social circles but our best wishes for continued success go with them to their new home.

Messrs. and Mesdames Freeman Smith and family of Plano, Harry Smith and family of Aurora and Ned Bedient and family of this vicinity, enjoyed a scramble dinner last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Bedient. Mrs. Freeman Smith arrived here Saturday night and returned home Tuesday.

The home of Fred Bybee was the scene of a jolly party last Saturday night when Mr. Archer of Compton who operated the threshing outfit on the Townline Road "run" treated the farmers and their families to eight gallons of ice cream, numberless cakes and unlimited quantities of candy and cigars. Mr. Archer had a very successful season and wished to demonstrate his gratitude to his patrons for their kindness and cooperation.

Mrs. Percy Berry, a recent bride was honored with a miscellaneous shower last Thursday afternoon in Woodman Hall. A pleasing program of music and readings was rendered by Misses Sarah and Faith Dishong, Edyth Hill and Margaret Jones, and those who desired, danced. The table decorations were pink, large bunches of gladioli, lending their exquisite beauty. Mrs. Berry was the recipient of many valued and beautiful gifts, a number of invited guests were unable to be present, sending tokens of the high esteem in which she is held. Dainty refreshments of punch, ice cream and assorted cake were served by the hostesses, Mesdames Paul Roberts, Harold Frost and Louis John.

Messrs. and Mesdames C. A. Ulrich and Will Ulrich of Sublette departed Saturday on a motor trip to Niagara Falls and other points of interest. Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Ulrich of Sublette are keeping house at the Ulrich home during their absence.

John Hanneman and Mrs. Louise Zopf were married at high noon last Wednesday in Oregon, Ill., by Rev. Ivan Miller, pastor of the Lutheran church. The bride was most attractive in a handsome gown of white crepe with hat and accessories to match. The many friends of this popular couple are extending hearty congratulations. There will be at home September 1st, on the Crombie farm which the bridegroom has rented for several years past. A pleasant pre-nuptial affair for them was a surprise party at the home of the bride, on the Monday night preceding the wedding, when many neighbors and friends assembled in their honor. On the Friday night after their wedding they were tendered a charivari by well-wishers from this town as well as their own locality, to which Mr. Hanneman most generously responded with ice cream and cake.

Messrs. and Mesdames Paul Roberts and George King enjoyed a beef-steak fry in the woods near here Sunday evening.

Messrs. and Mesdames Louis John and Percy Berry picnicked at Lowell Park last Sunday.

MAY SEYMOUR FOOTLOOSE

by BEATRICE BURTON SEQUEL TO "THE FLAPPER WIFE"

ONEA

THE STORY SO FAR:

MAY SEYMOUR, whose husband killed himself because of her love affair with JIM CAREWE, returns to her home town after a year's absence. She disposes of her inherited property, leaves the sale of her house in the hands of ULYSSES X. FORGAN, and with $8000 in her handbag, sets out to find and marry a man with money.

At Atlantic City she meets a divorcee, CARLOTTA FROLKING, and her friends, HERBERT WATERBURY and DAN SPRAGUE. Both men pay court to May, greatly to the distress of Carlotta, who has been in love with Dan for many years.

May, however, sets her cap for Waterbury, having made up her mind that he is the millionaire husband she is looking for. She spends almost all of her ready money on jewels, a fur coat, and expensive clothes to create the impression that she is a wealthy widow. Finally Waterbury proposes, and May accepts him.

She plans to marry him within a week before he has a chance to slip through her fingers, and when the $12,000 from the sale of her house arrives she turns it over to him to invest for her in Dan Sprague's oil well. But immediately she regrets it, when Carlotta, on the eve of her departure for her California home, warns May not to trust Waterbury too far. She hints that her husband and Dan Sprague, and a mysterious third man named "Oliver M. Brunell" work together to put over shady stock deals.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

WITH troubled eyes, May watched the traffic as it slid out of the station carrying Carlotta with it. If only she could have just a minute or two more to talk with her—

What had the frivolous little butterfly woman been trying to tell her? That Dan and Waterbury and the mysterious "Oliver M. Brunell" were a triumvirate that worked together to put over shady stock deals? That they were out-and-out crooks?

Carefully May went over Carlotta's words in her mind, as she walked slowly back to the hotel, hardly realizing where she was going.

"If I were you, I shouldn't trust Herbert Waterbury too far," Carlotta had said.

Good heavens, thought May, this was a fine time to tell her a thing like that—when she had just turned over to Herbert every sou she had in the wide green earth! She groaned aloud as she thought of what she had done.

The fur coat she wore, the diamond-studded watch on her wrist, the black pearl ring—these represented a whole fortune—these, and the $14,000 she had signed over to Waterbury.

Moreover she owed a large bill at the hotel. She hadn't even paid for the orchids that were pinned to the soft, scented fur of her coat. Nor for the dinner she had given last night in honor of her engagement to Herbert!

"Oh, what a fool I was to part with that money!" she thought wildly. "Women are such simple things—they ought never to be allowed to handle their own money. Some lawyer or other ought to do it for them—or a guardian!"

She stopped suddenly. Where had she heard someone say that before? Then she remembered. Waterbury, himself, had said it the night she had dropped her bag with its roll of $500 bills!

It was not the kind of thing a dishonest man would have said, she thought.

"I don't know—I'm so mixed," she thought straightly. "May I not think straight?"

"Oliver M. Brunell—never heard of such a man," said Waterbury.

nally decided.

Only one thing was clear in her mind. She would have to go straight to Herbert and ask him to give her money back to her!

"But, if I do that, the chances are he'll get sore because I don't trust him, and refuse to marry me," she thought. She could see that Herbert wasn't half so anxious to marry her as she was to marry him—

Wasn't that what he had told her that his young daughter was opposed to the idea of his giving her a step-mother? And yet Carlotta had said that he had no daughter—that he was a bachelor like Dan!

Of course, Carlotta might have been mistaken. That was highly possible; she had a way of only half-listening to what was said to her.

Certainly Herbert looked like anything but a crook. His blue eyes had a frank, open way of looking at you. He had the air, always, of a man who had nothing to conceal—and yet, wasn't there a slack, cruel droop to his lips? Sometimes they laughed unpleasantly, too—

Yes, it would be better to get the money, if possible. And the way to do it, May decided, was to pick out the largest, most expensive diamond engagement ring in Atlantic City at once, and to see to it that Herbert paid cash for it! She could do that without hurting his feelings.

She glanced at the little watch on her wrist—ten minutes after seven. It was Saturday night and the stores were still open—

She hurried on to a drugstore on the next corner and telephoned her maid to meet her on the Boardwalk in five minutes.

"I'll fix him!" she thought grimly. But when he came up to her, his eyes were soft and her lips were tilted in the sweetest and gentlest of smiles. She dimpled at him.

"You'll never guess what I called you for," she said, as she tucked her hand into his and fell into step beside him. "Never in a million years—I want you to go shopping with me!"

Herbert laughed, but a worried look came into his eyes.

"Women have said that to me before, and it's always meant trouble," he said nervously. "What do you want to shop for, at this late hour on Saturday night?"

"Best time of the whole week for bargains!" said May with great cheerfulness. "Why, we're going shopping for my engagement ring."

"It is?" asked Waterbury. "I never heard that before—Look here, May, can't we let this go until Monday morning? I have a business engagement tonight with Dan—"

"Oo-ooh, what a fibber you are!" May broke in. "Dan Sprague isn't even in Atlantic City. Carlotta says he followed Frankie Lee up to New York—so you'll have to think up a better excuse than that, old timer!"

Suddenly Waterbury stopped, and shook her hand from his arm. He faced her with angry eyes. "I don't get all this engagement ring stuff," he said. "I should think you'd wait until I bought one and presented it to you, as a lover should. Instead of trying to black-jack me into buying one for you!—You act just like the cheapest little gold digger alive!"

"Well, that's a sweet thing to say to me—when you have thousands of dollars of mine!" May exclaimed. "If there's any gold digging going on around here, you're doing it with your own little shovel!"

Waterbury threw back his head and laughed. "What a little spit-fire it is!" he said, drawing her arm through his, and pulling her close to him. "We mustn't quarrel like this, sweetheart!"

"I'm having a ring made for you—from the ring that was my mother's and my grandmother's, when they were brides," he told her. "It was to have been finished today. Let's go back to the hotel, and see if they've sent it from Tiffany's."

The magic name "Tiffany" swept all doubts of Waterbury from May's mind, for the moment. She knew that people of wealth and substance patronized that famous house.

The magic name "Tiffany" swept all doubts of Waterbury from May's mind, for the moment. She knew that people of wealth and substance patronized that famous house.

She bent her head to hers, and lowered his voice to a whisper.

"I suppose there isn't any outstanding love affair in anybody's life," May thought dreamily, as she watched Herbert come back across the lobby toward her. "We have a little flirtation here, and a little thrill there, and first thing we know we're old and cold and gray. And that's about all there is to it!"

But, while she was saying it to herself, she knew it wasn't true.

She remembered her own widowed mother who had loved the memory of the father whom May had never seen, as May, herself, had never loved any man in the flesh! . . .

She remembered Sunday afternoons of her childhood, when she had gone with her mother to a lonely cemetery to tend the flowers on her father's grave. She remembered how her mother had cried on those distant Sunday afternoons, and how she had cried, too, not knowing why.

Yes, it must be given to some women to really care for a man. "But not to me," May told herself with a kind of triumph. "I must be hard as nails!"

Waterbury shook his head as he came up to her. "No, my package hasn't arrived," he said, with a mock tragic air. "Nothing for me but a letter. Do you think you can wait for your engagement ring until Monday without cracking under the strain?"

"Well, I'll do my best," May promised him, and as he sat down beside her, she slipped her hand into his. "Herbie, tell me something: Why didn't you ever give your first wife that ring of your mother's for her engagement ring?"

Herbie was silent for a minute or two. "Well, you see," he began at last. "My mother was still living sixteen years ago when my wife and I were married. And naturally she wanted to keep the ring so long as she lived."

"I see," May nodded her head knowingly. "The reason I asked you was because Carlotta says you never had a wife. She says you haven't a daughter either. . . . and she also says that you have to farm up near Pittsfield. . . . Now, what have you got to say to that?"

Waterbury opened his mouth to speak, ran his tongue over his dry lips, and then leaned back suddenly, as if someone had given him a push. "Why?—what?" he stammered.

"Why—what else did Carlotta have to say about me?"

"Nothing much," May answered calmly, "except that you were a bachelor, like Dan. And that you and he were in on a lot of shady deals with a man named 'Oliver M. Brunell.'"

"Oliver M. Brunell—never heard of such a man," said Waterbury. May laughed. "I thought you said he was the man who gave that cane to your father," she said. "You see, those are his initials—'O. M. B.'"

At that instant her eye fell upon the letter
